PREVIOUS ACTIVITIES

Reintegration help for migrants after the return to country of origin

In 2011 IOM Bratislava within the framework of the Assisted Voluntary Return and Reintegration Programme provided reintegration help in total amount of 35 783,79 € to 26 individuals or entire families from Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Iraq, Moldova, Serbia (Kosovo), Ukraine and Vietnam who applied for assisted voluntary return and reintegration grant. For example, targeted IOM aid helped to improve living conditions of a 50-year old client and his family, who have returned from Slovakia to their home village in Velesniv, Ukraine. The married couple with two daughters has owned an old simple house there, but high maintenance costs and costs of energy complicated their life situation. IOM Bratislava decided to help them with their troubles and contributed to buying some building materials and new windows.

With renovation and insulation of the house they have achieved the decrease of high energy consumption and their heating costs. The family from Velesniv has become a positive example for other migrants returning from Slovakia back to Ukraine and their interest in getting the reintegration assistance and support has increased. Growing number of successful reintegration stories in Ukraine was also noted.

You can find more information about the Assisted Voluntary Return and Reintegration Programme (AVRR) on the newly updated website www.avr.iom.sk.

The Assisted Voluntary Return and Reintegration Programme (AVRR) is funded by the European Union, Solidarity and Management of Migration Flows. Co-funded by the Ministry of the Interior of the SR.

Multicultural party 'We are also at home here' has had notable success

IOM International Organization for Migration carried out an event entitled We are also at home here. This multiCOOLtural evening was held on 19 April 2012 at KC Dunaj in Bratislava. With rhythms, dances and flavours of Asia, Africa, Orient and Caribbean it attracted over 500 guests. The programme introduced a fusion of different cultures - both Slovak and foreign ones - and it underlined the fact that they can mutually complement and enrich each other.

The programme was opened by Vanessa Wang by playing Chinese string instrument gu zheng while Olia El Hassoun and Roman Kozák introduced to the audience oriental music accompanied by the dance performance of a belly dancer Dia. Moreover, Thierry played African drums and rhythms. The headliner of the evening was the music band Team Cuba interpreting original Cuban son, salsa, merengue and cha-cha. Except for their own songs its repertoire was appreciated for the favourite pieces of the legendary Cuban band Buena Vista Social Club. The dancing duo Sabor Cubano swayed the audience to the rhythm of the traditional Cuban dances, encouraging the visitors to join them on the dance floor. In addition to the performances, the visitors also had the opportunity to taste traditional Indian and Lebanese cuisines, oriental sweets as well as traditionally served Turkish coffee and tea.

The event “We are also at home here” opened up the 7th [fjúžn] festival and was part of the international project Next Door Family EU – Inclusive Neighbourhoods conducted by the Czech non-governmental organization SLOVO 21 in collaboration with partners from seven European countries. The project is implemented in Slovakia by the IOM International Organization for Migration. More information on the project is available on www.nextdoorfamily.eu.

The project is co-funded by the European Commission from the European Fund for the Integration of Third-Country Nationals (EIF).

The Slovak Republic provides a temporary shelter to a fifth group of refugees

A group of 44 Afghan refugees arrived to Slovakia on 19 April 2012. The group consists of divorced or widowed women with children who fled from Afghanistan to Iran during the armed conflict and were granted asylum status there in 2001. Being women living without their husbands, they were ostracized in their homeland and the situation did not improve much even in the refugee camp in Iran.

Women with children are temporarily accommodated in the asylum facility of the Ministry of Interior in Humenné where they will stay for a period of 6 months. This period is meant for the refugees' physical and mental recovery, necessary medical examinations and course of cultural orientation. Refugees will be then resettled to the United States of America (USA). Resettlement to a third country has shown to be the last resort for their situation and it represents a unique opportunity for a new beginning in a secure country.

The 6-month temporary shelter is provided by the Slovak Republic on the basis of the trilateral treaty signed on 22 December 2010 by the Government of the Slovak Republic, the UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and the International Organization for Migration (IOM). In accordance with the treaty, IOM is responsible for the provision of medical services and cultural orientation, as well as for the transport of refugees to the Slovak Republic and from the Slovak Republic to the country of resettlement.

The refugees are the second group of Afghan women and children from Iran, and at the same time the fifth group in total which will be resettled through the Emergency Transit Centre (ETC) in Humenné. Since the establishment of ETC in 2009 267 refugees - 98 Palestinians, 90 Afghans, 53 Somalis, 12 Eritreans, 8 Ethiopians, and 6 Iraqis - have been resettled through the Slovak Republic.

The activities of IOM in this project are financed by the US Government through its USRAP Program – United States Refugee Admissions Program.

Trend in human trafficking: forced labour

Even though forced prostitution was the most common purpose of trafficking in human beings, in recent two years the social workers of IOM Bratislava have noticed an increased number of the victims of forced labour, forced begging and an increased number of trafficking of men in working-age.

IOM Bratislava has responded to the current situation by creating a prevention film named '0800 800 818', directed by Marcel Pázman. The movie presents the topic of forced labour, or men as the victims of trafficking, through the several real stories – a man forced to beg in Italy, a woman working in England without salary, a man exploited on construction in England or a woman forced to work in sex-business in Switzerland. Movie shows practices of traffickers and their methods of manipulation with potential victims and explains what to do if a person becomes a victim of trafficking. The film had its premiere on 22th May 2012 on Slovak Television (RTVS) and it was followed by a discussion of involved experts. It is possible to watch the film on YouTube channel of IOM. Currently, IOM is working on creating the English subtitles for the film. For using the film in practical prevention, IOM recommends to use the methodology created for this purpose by IOM Bratislava social workers, available on IOM website.

During May and June 2012 the film '0800 800 818' was used by the lecturers of IOM Bratislava Countertrafficking Unit for the first time as the one of the training tools. The trainings within the project „Prevention and extended harmonized system of data collection on human trafficking”, which is implemented by the Ministry of Interior of the Slovak Republic in partnership with The International Centre for Migration Policy Development (ICMPD), were focused onto specifics of forced labour. Within 6 training blocks 119 selected staff of The National Labour Inspectorate, Ministry of Labour, Social affairs and Family, police officers and field social workers were trained.

The movie ‘0800 800 818’ was created with financial support of Crime Prevention Council of the Government of the Slovak Republic, the British Embassy, the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands and the Slovak Audiovisual Fund.

Food and Culture from around the World in Bratislava

Second annual Gastrofestival of Migrant Communities was held on Sunday June 10, 2012 in Grassalkovich Garden in Bratislava. Foreigners from different countries living in Slovakia presented their culture through traditional food and music performance.

The Gastrofestival was organized within the event Open Parks and Gardens Weekend 2012. The representatives of Afghan, African, Ecuadorian, Cuban, Latino-American and Turkish communities presented themselves through their traditional food in Grassalkovich Garden. International market of receipts, presentation of communities and mini festival of drums and percussions, which were available to guests to play during the workshops, were part of the festival as well.

The objective of the Gastrofestival was to present to the majority the life, culture and gastronomy of the foreigner communities living in Slovakia. The event was organized by the communities in cooperation with IOM Migration Information Centre (MIC) which covered and financially supported this multicultural event.

The Project MIC is co-financed by the European Union from the European Fund for the Integration of Third-Country Nationals. Solidarity and Management of Migration Flows.

Multicultural Friday Hot Fever in Košice

Košice is gradually becoming hometown for people of various cultures and from different countries. Lot of people has no idea about the number of manifold nationalities crossing the streets of Košice. Multicultural Information Meetings, that are supported by the IOM Migration Information Centre (MIC) in Košice, are the best options for them to meet various cultures “under one roof”. MIC cultural mediators Jose Dario Garcia Villena (Peru) and Shreyas Kadam (India) decided to arrange an event which would conjoin cultures of number of the Latin America countries and that of India. On June 29, several cultures from all over the world met by the lake – Jazero in Košice.

Friday Hot Fever began in the afternoon and those people who were attracted by the Latin-American and Indian culture had the option to see and hear the DJ from Peru, dance group Salsa Caliente, Brazilian martial art Capoeira or demonstration of the Indian festivals – Holi (festival of lights) and Diwali (festival of colours). Almost 200 people attended the event and most of them did not miss the chance to degust the original Indian food that confirmed another sense of the word “HOT” in the event’s name. The number of visitors proves the interest of the people in Košice and their willingness to get to know other cultures. On the other hand, communities had a chance for a positive representation of their home country and original culture.
